

The People Behind The Work

SECTION ANALYSIS

Purpose: Replaces what used to be a second, duplicate view of the Industries data at this spot on the page (id="team-section" in the code, a naming leftover that turned out to be the right instinct). This is now a real, admin-manageable Team section.

Target Audience: Visitors who want to know there are real people behind the agency, not just a portfolio and a contact form.

User Intent: Who am I actually going to be working with.

Business Goal: Add a human trust layer late in the page, after capability (Services/Tech) and proof (Portfolio/Industries) have already been made.

Design Psychology: A named person with a role and a real social link is harder to distrust than an anonymous "our team" paragraph.

Template Note: This is now a genuine dynamic section, not a hardcoded block. Admin fills it in at Admin → Pages → Home → Team Section, using the existing repeater UI ("Add Another Team Members") — no new admin screens were built, the app's existing group-field mechanism already supported this. No team members have been added yet — inventing fake names, photos, or social links would break the zero-fabrication standard kept across every other content doc this session, so the section currently renders its empty-state message ("Team members will be listed here shortly.") until real people are added.

EXPLANATION (HINGLISH)

Small Label — "Meet The Team" ek standard, warm, expected phrase hai is tarah ke section ke liye — kuch clever likhne ki zaroorat nahi thi, yahan directness hi best choice hai.

Main Heading — "The People Behind The Work" isliye likha kyunki yeh directly page ke pichhle sections (Portfolio: "What We Have Done", Industries: "Industries We Serve") ke saath continuity banata hai — "work" wahi word hai jo already establish ho chuka hai.

Subtitle — "not just a logo" line ek real, relatable visitor thought address karti hai — agencies aksar sirf brand ke peeche chhup jaati hain. Specific roles (code, screens, emails) mention kiye taaki line generic "our amazing team" jaisi na lage.

Social Link auto-icon — Admin se sirf ek URL maangna (icon-picker nahi) form ko simple rakhta hai, aur icon khud URL ke domain se detect ho jata hai — ek extra field kam, ek galti kam.

Empty state — Jab tak admin real team members add nahi karta, section apna existing "will be listed here shortly" style empty message dikhata hai (jaise Industries/Blog/Testimonials sections already karte hain) — fake placeholder logo ya generic stock-photo team members dikhana zyada misleading hota.
